Payment

- A deposit of at least 50% (NON - REFUNDABLE) must be paid before I start working. Once the sketch is approved the remaining payment must be done.
- The final product will only be delivered once I have received payment in full.
- All payments are through PayPal.
- Payment plans can be arranged for larger commissions; ask me for details if necessary.

Process

- A set of 3 to 5 reference images is required to tailor the final artwork upon the client's vision and initial request.
- Once the first payment is completed, I provide a schedule with milestones for the project. Milestones are used as checkpoints with clients to receive feedback, revisions, corrections before advancing forward. To advance into the next stage the client's validation is required.
- Validations with clients occur during these phases:
    - After the first sketch is completed
    - After the flat colors are completed
    - Before the final Rendering is completed.
- Revision can be done according to the phase of the project listed above. The Client has up to 2 revisions per phase. More than 2 revisions can be charged according to the complexity of the requirement.
- Once I receive confirmation/approval from the Client, any revision of the artwork that involves redoing or going back to previous phases might be charged separately. The charge will be calculated upon complexity and hours per work required to be completed. Larger changes may require additional fees, or a new commission.
- You can modify your commission at any time before I start working on the piece. You can upgrade or include additional add-ons simply by paying the difference. You can even change the character background entirely. Just remember that I cannot provide refunds for downgrades.
- Once the finalized artwork is accepted, I will email you full HD png and jpegs with and without watermark for social media posting. No physical product will be delivered. Editable archives will not be shared.
